A CONNECTION MAP OF THE BOOK

Solving 9-11 — people, positions and claimed connections

This atlas charts the people, organizations and events named in Christopher Bollyn's Solving 9-11: The Deception That Changed the World (2009–10 edition, foreword plus 14 chapters): 236 people and 89 organizations or events in 20 hubs. Two further hubs add 30 entries from Bollyn's other writing (2005–2018 articles) that are not in this edition. In all there are 276 labelled relationships and 170 sources.

Reader's note

This is a map of what the book asserts. Each entry's title or position is stated as fact; each connection and description is the book's claim, reported as such. Being on the map does not mean a person had any role in the September 11 attacks. The 9/11 Commission attributed the attacks to al-Qaeda hijackers, and NIST attributed the collapses of WTC 1, 2 and 7 to impact damage and fire. The book rejects those findings. Its central thesis, that Israeli intelligence planned the attacks, is not supported by those investigations and has been widely criticized, including as antisemitic. The map does not repeat the book's ethnic and religious labels for individuals. Where an outside fact materially qualifies a claim, the entry says so in a note marked “outside the book”. Circles with a dotted halo come from Bollyn's other writing, not this edition. Dov Zakheim and Paul Wolfowitz appear there only through PNAC's 2000 report, which Bollyn quotes. The theory about Zakheim's former company comes from other 9/11 writers, and the map says so.

How to use it

Overview (p. 3) shows the book's thesis in the centre, the 22 hubs around it and a few key figures for each, laid out like a mind map. Hub links (p. 4) shows which themes the book ties together. Hub maps (pp. 5–26) show every person in a theme with their title and a one-line account. Dashed lines are labelled relationships, and the dark badge on a circle counts that person's links into other hubs (listed in the sidebar). Everything is clickable. Circles open the person's directory entry, entries link back to the circle (“On map”) and to each connection, and the source index links every citation to the original URL, an archived copy and a web search. Use your PDF viewer's bookmarks panel to jump between sections.

Colour key

- Implicated by the book
- Accused of cover-up / gatekeeping

- Context / background
- The author
- Dotted halo: Bollyn's other writing

White circles with a coloured ring are organizations; dashed rings are events or episodes. The ring colour follows the same key.

Solving 9-11 — connection map

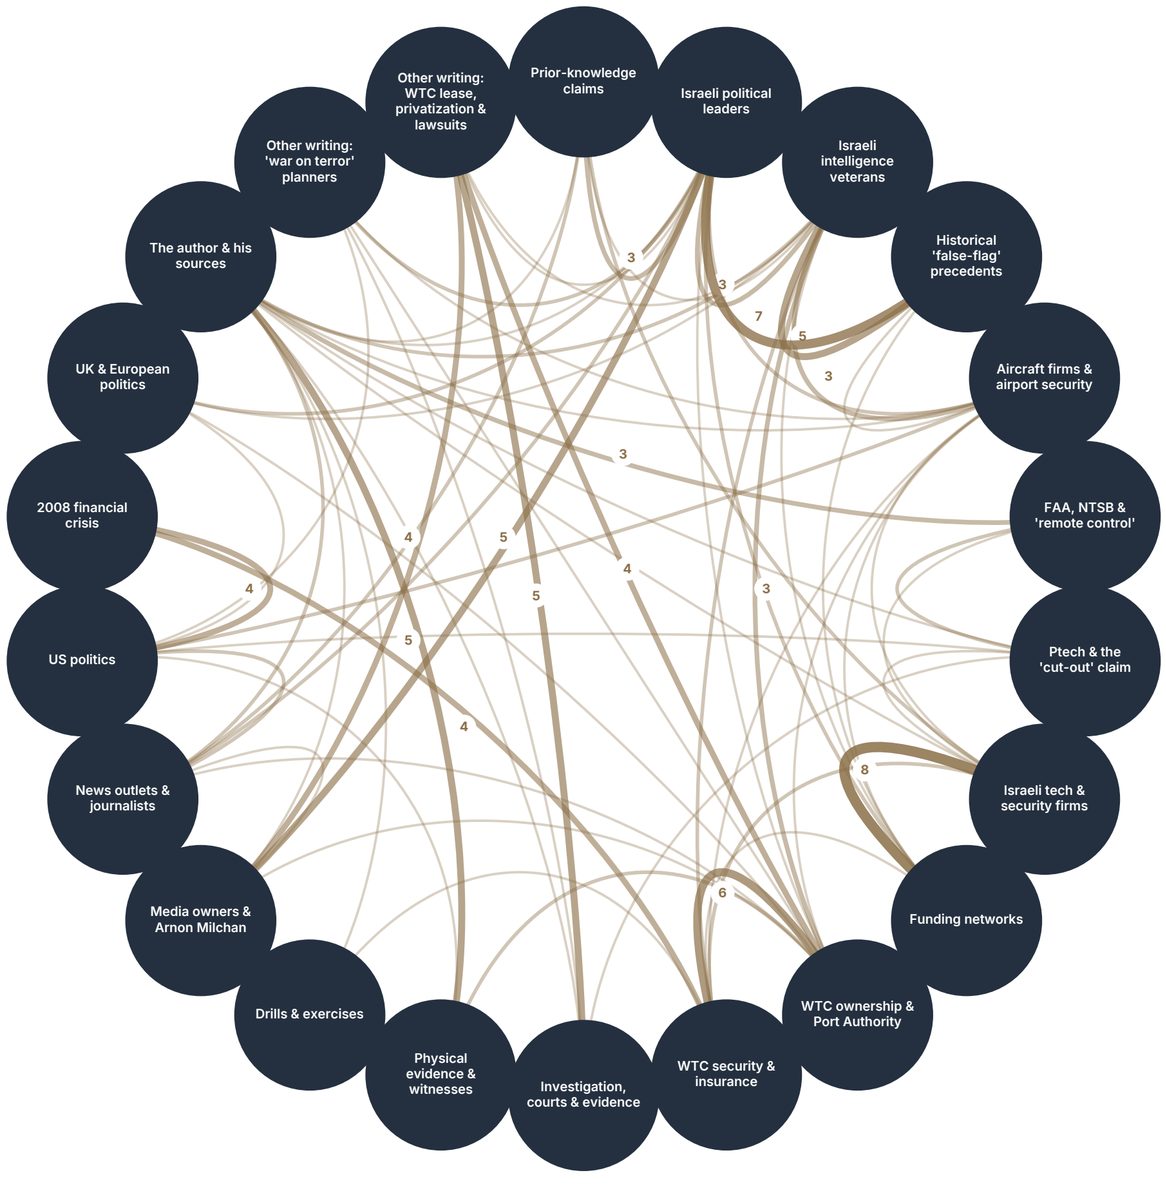

Each dark circle is a hub (a theme of the book); around it are up to five of its central figures. Click a hub to open its full map, or a figure to read their directory entry. Positions are factual; every connection is the book's claim.

Implicated by the book · Accused of cover-up / gatekeeping · Source, witness or expert cited · Context / background · The author · Organization · Event / episode · Relationship (labelled) · 3 Links to people in other hubs · From Bollyn's other writing (not this edition)

Cross-links between hubs

Each line joins two hubs that share at least one person-to-person link in the book's account; thicker lines mean more links (number shown). The table at right lists every pairing.

Prior-knowledge claims

The book's argument here: The book's opening 'evidence': five Israelis detained in New Jersey, Odigo warning messages, a 1979/80 prediction and a visit it calls secret.

Israeli political leaders

The book's argument here: Leaders the book casts as architects or beneficiaries of a 'false-flag' strategy; their statements are read as motive.
